33 from Bucyrus in Bus Crash Near Crestline

12 IN HOSPITAL, MOSTLY WOMEN WAR WORKERS

Wives of Soldiers Among Shaken by Depot Employes As Bus Upsets.

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE O., March 14—Thirty-three Bucyrus employes of the Shelby Air Depot were shaken and bruised, 12 of them seriously enough to require hospital treatment when the bus in which they were riding to work overturned early today two miles west of here.

All were rushed to the Crestline Emergency hospital where 20 were released after receiving treatment. The others remained for further checkups on their injuries and for treatment.

Most of the victims were women and a majority of them were reported to be wives of servicemen stationed at Camp Millard in Burma.

There were passengers in a bus driven by Foy A. West of Crestline who has operated it under a lease from the depot to haul workers to and from Bucyrus. The accident happened on Route 30 North about 6:35 a. m. today. Marion line about 25 minutes before the workers were to report at the depot.

Hit Patch of Ice

State highway patrolmen said the bus driver told them his bus skidded as it struck a patch of ice, careened and went into the ditch on the left side of the road. As it tipped into the ditch it rolled over on its left side.

The passengers, bruised and shaken, were able to make their way out of the door on the right side of the bus, and were then taken to the hospital in ambulances. Medical examinations were arranged for all passengers as a precaution, although some of them were only shaken.

The facilities of the Crestline hospital were swamped, and when the victims started pouring in only one doctor was at the hospital. Army officials helped arrange for care of the injured.

List of Injured

Of the 33 passengers, deputies from the Crawford county sheriff's office reported that 10 women and two men were admitted to the hospital. All the others were treated and permitted to leave. Those listed as having been admitted were Mrs. Hazel Hall, Mrs. Angeline Scardangita, Mrs. Katie Camillo, Mrs. Theresa Kolesar, Mrs. Metta Jones, Mrs. Fern VanDan, Mrs. Sophia Bennenberg, Mrs. Isabel B. Dempsey, Marion Settles, Mrs. Etta Byrnes, Clinton Keiss and Mrs. Auburn McGraw.

Keiss, formerly employed at the Citizens' bank in Bucyrus, was reported to have suffered arm, head and back injuries but not of a serious nature. Settles was reported to have a lacerated eye and back injuries.

Among other long-time Bucyrus residents in the accident not

A Marion man, Capt. Courtney LeMar Faught, was among the Ohio officers and enlisted men of the U. S. Fifth Air Force receiving awards or decorations for service, it was announced today by the war department, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington D. C. Capt. Faught was awarded the flying cross for completion of missions by Major General George C. Kenney, head of the Army Air Corps. He recently was awarded his air medal for the completion of 25 missions.

He joined the armed forces in September 1941 and took his cadet training at Greenville, Jackson and Columbus, Miss. He was graduated at the Columbus air field on May 20, 1942 after which he took a month's training at Camp Douglas, Wis. and later at Louisville, Ky. He went into active service following six weeks' paratroop training at Fort Benning, Ga.

37th Division Leaves Hundreds of Japs Dead in Bitter Battle

Enemy Suicide Assault Thrown Back with Foe's Casualties Piled High Against Barbedwire Defenses.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 14—Massed Japanese assaults on the American beachhead on Bougainville island in the Solomons Saturday were thrown back with hundreds of enemy dead left on the defenders' barbed wire, allied headquarters reported today.

The 37th (Ohio) division, which held against the enemy's repeated suicidal attacks northeast of Cape Torokina at Empress Augusta bay, reported 500 Japanese bodies matted on its wire. Many more dead were piled on the jungle approaches to the barricades.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, said the Japanese hit without hope and with the supreme purpose of killing as many Americans as they could before they died.

But official accounts said American casualties were light, against a conservative estimate of 1,000 Japanese dead since the enemy, isolated on the island by allied blockade, started the Empress Augusta bay attacks March 8.

In three main attacks, two Japanese infantry regiments supported by artillery came up against American rifles, machine-guns, land mines, flame throwers and bazookas. Some got through, but by nightfall the defenders had restored their lines.

Artillery Praised

Maj. Gen. John Hodge said American artillery fire which knocked out 18 Japanese field pieces was "the best I have ever seen."

Navy and Marine Corps planes bombed enemy supply dumps and concentrations. A destroyer poured shells into Japanese support areas.

The Japanese were reported massing for another attack. Their artillery fire damaged the Piva airstrip, but Navy Seabees quickly put it in shape again.

(A Tokyo broadcast heard in New York said the Japanese on Bougainville were "taking over one American position after another" and that they had captured two out of three allied airfields in the Empress Augusta bay area.)

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said Solomons-based bombers smashed at Rabaul Saturday with 117 tons of explosives, meeting no aerial interception.

ISOLATION OF IRELAND GOAL

Churchill Declares Travel Restrictions First Step in Move Against Eire.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 14—Prime Minister Churchill declared today restrictions on travel to Eire are "the first step in a policy designed to isolate Great Britain from southern Ireland, and also to isolate southern Ireland from the outer world during the critical period now approaching."

"If a catastrophe were to occur to the allied armies which could be traced to the retention of German and Japanese representatives in Dublin a gulf would be opened between Great Britain on one hand and southern Ireland on the other which even generations would not bridge," he told commons.

Churchill declared the British government had been consulted throughout by the United States on the Washington request that Eire close German and Japanese consulates—and "gave the American approach full support."

U. S. Takes Initiative

Churchill said "the initiative in this mater was taken by the United States government because of the danger to the American armed forces from the presence of axis missions in Dublin. The British government, however, was consulted throughout. * * *

"We have for some time past taken a number of measures to minimize the dangers arising from a substantial disservice to the allied cause involved in the retention by Mr. De Valera's government of the German minister and Japanese consul with their staffs in Dublin.

"The time has now come when these measures must be strengthened. * * *

"I need scarcely to say how painful it is to us to take such measures in view of the large numbers of Irishmen who are fighting so bravely in our armed forces and the many deeds of personal heroism by which they have kept alive the martial honor of the Irish race."

Likely To Close Border

A high authority expressed conviction in Dublin last night the allies would soon close the border between neutral Eire and northern Ireland as a natural sequel to the ban on traffic across the Irish sea.

An Associated Press dispatch from Dublin said any hopes the Irish might have that the decision on closing the border might be left to the Belfast (Ulster) government were unfounded. It was believed in Dublin, however, there would be no immediate formal sanctions against Eire.

The Irish government has refused a United States request that the Japanese and German legations in Eire be closed.

Partition of Ireland Root of Present Trouble Between Eire and Allies

By The Associated Press

The present diplomatic impasse between the United Nations and neutral Eire has its roots in the Irish partition act, ratified in 1922, by which the six counties in northern Ireland, or Ulster, voted to retain membership in the British commonwealth of nations while the remaining 26 counties became an independent country.

Northern Ireland is industrial and predominantly Protestant, with blood and economic ties that bind it closely to Britain. Eire is agricultural, mainly Catholic, militantly independent and deeply convinced Ireland should be a united, free nation.

Eire's contention is that to enter the war would be to recognize partition. She holds her policy against partition is similar to that of the United States in the war between the states. She also declares the United States did not enter the World war until she was attacked, that Ireland retains the same right to remain neutral.

Prime Minister Eamon De Valera is believed to reflect the view of the majority of Eire's people in his neutrality stand.

The government of Eire protested the landing of American troops in northern Ireland—which to Dublin was the sending of troops into Ireland's territory without consulting its government. Dublin felt incumbent to protest lest a dangerous precedent be established. It has followed

More Red Cross Reports Received

Two more townships reported yesterday in the Red Cross War Fund drive, making a total of 19 reports from 22 townships. Tully township through F. W. Baldinger announced it is within $25 of its $450 quota. Actual amount subscribed was $426.51. A partial report by Mrs Ira Beers, chairman for Scott township, revealed they have collected $233.50 of their $300 quota.

Three townships have not given any report yet but are expected to do so at the meeting Thursday night in the War Fund headquarters.

Calls from families are still coming into the Red Cross office announcing they have not been contacted yet by a Red Cross worker and these reports have been turned over to the various chairmen. Many families have had their donations ready since the first of the month. Workers are attempting to make a call back on all places previously missed and Marionites are asked to cooperate by saying when they will be at home. Persons who wish may mail their check or money order to the Red Cross office where they will be credited to the proper workers.

Rep. Brown Renews His Battle To Force OWI Investigation

Ohioan Charges Federal Agency Used To Distribute Fourth Term Propaganda to Troops.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 14—Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R) of Blanchester, launched a new offensive against the office of war information (OWI) today with an assertion that "fourth term, political and ideological propaganda is being distributed" in the armed services.

Saying that an administration spokesman, whom he identified as Representative Bulwinkle (D-N.C.), made a weak effort to defend OWI, Brown declared that word has gone out from "high sources" to block his resolution to authorize an investigation of the dissemination of news, motion picture and broadcast material relating to public officials and candidates for office.

The spokesman's reply to his earlier criticism of OWI, Brown said in a 45-minute house speech, was "futile because I am convinced that there are few if any members of congress who have been misled by the gentleman's effort to clothe this bureaucratic agency of the government in the white robes of benign righteousness and sanctimonious purity."

"In his attempt to defend the office of war information," Brown added, "the administration apologist quoted Mr. Palmer Hoyt as saying 'OWI is no propaganda agency.' Evidently the gentleman did not know Mr. Palmer Hoyt served only as chief of the domestic branch of OWI, and had nothing to do with the preparation or dissemination of foreign news and propaganda."

Brown observed that Hoyt, a Republican and "a splendid public servant, is out of the OWI, and his place has been filled by a gentleman whose political thinking fits in better with the New Deal pattern."

Cites Instances of Bias

After quoting congressional hearings which he said indicated bias on the part of OWI in preparation of news for consumption abroad, Brown said:

"I want it clearly understood that I in no wise impugn the motives or the professional standards of the regular officers of our Army and Navy when I make the flat charge that fourth term, political and ideological propaganda is being distributed among our troops and sailors at a time when it is impossible for them to get both sides of every controversial question.

"I make the charge, on the other hand, that our armed forces are having pressures put upon them to disseminate propaganda which I described.

"And we all know of the pressures which are in the hands of this New Deal administration, once it had made up its mind that it would use such pressures, to exercise the arts of propaganda.

"I would trust the judgment, the discretion and the honor of General Marshall and Admiral King to the ends of the earth in this matter. But this congress in turns owes a duty to them to be sure that their operations are not interfered with by some who put politics and economic pas-

ROOSEVELT TO ASK STRICT DAD DRAFT

WASHINGTON, March 14—President Roosevelt is expected today to ask local boards to adopt a hard-boiled policy on the drafting of fathers, to protect vital war industries from a growing military drain on their skilled help.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was predicted, will "clarify" his memorandum of Feb. 26, which called for a review of all occupational deferments and which,—some officials assert,—has prompted many draft boards to turn industrially-deferred non-fathers to fill their quotas.

War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt disclosed yesterday a White House message might be forthcoming within 24 hours, dealing with occupational deferment and the "serious situation" arising from the exodus of trained manpower from war plants.

Informed sources within the war production board (WPB) and WMC predicted:

1. That Mr. Roosevelt would emphasize that pre-Pearl Harbor fathers should get the same treatment as non-fathers.

2. That he would call for some new machinery to insure that highly essential plants get protection from drafting of key workers.

The war department was lined up against the Navy, maritime commission, WPB and WMC on the question, it was reported, because the army is convinced it must have younger men doing the fighting.

DOZEN SHIPS A DAY JOINING NAVAL FORCES

Knox Cites Need of 500,000 Men To Boost Personnel To Three Million This Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 14—With nearly a dozen new ships joining the United States fleet every day, the Navy will need 3,000,000 officers and men by the end of this year—or an increase of nearly 500,000 over its present manpower.

The figures were given by Secretary of the Navy Knox and Vice Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the bureau of Navy personnel, at a news conference today.

Jacobs emphasized the dozen-ships-a-day figure is based wholly on sea-going vessels and does not include small auxiliaries, although the total covers "some of the larger landing craft."

The personnel chief estimated that the Navy's total strength by the end of 1944 will be 3,006,000 officers and men, while the total for all naval services, including Marines and Coast Guard, is expected to be approximately 3,700,000.

He said that the number of ships in the fleet has increased from 813 on January 1, 1942 to 4,167 on January 1, 1944.

All these ships, Knox continued, require competent trained personnel and the Navy, to meet its needs for enlisted personnel, has been increasing selective service quotas and recruiting young sea-going officers particularly needed for amphibious operations, cargo transports and destroyer escorts.

Shore establishments have been "combed," the secretary said, for sea-going officers.

He added that the Navy plans to continue without change its program of training men in colleges.

Discussing the war against Japan, Knox reported carrier-borne aircraft are destroying enemy planes at a rate of better than 13 to 1 in the current central Pacific offensive. He said more than 600 Japanese planes had been destroyed in major actions since last November, against American Navy plane losses of only 45.

"Several factors have contributed to the high Jap losses," he explained. "One is the fact that the enemy is being caught repeatedly with large numbers of his aircraft on the grounds—253 of the more than 600 Jap planes destroyed, or nearly 40 per cent, were pinned down and bombed or strafed before they had a chance to get in the air and fight."

The Navy secretary displayed to newsmen models of various types of barges and landing craft used by the Japanese to augment their merchant fleet, which has been reduced severely by our submarines.

The barges range in length from 30 to 60 feet and carry loads ranging from 40 to 120 men. Their armament is for the most part made up of machine guns or smaller anti-aircraft weapons.

War Summary

NAVY—Sec. Knox says Navy needs 500,000 men to boost sea forces to 3,000,000, by end of year. Twelve new ships joining fleet each day.

ITALY—Weather improves in Italy but soft ground still hampers troop movements.

RUSSIA—Germans reported rushing ships from Rumania to Odessa for evacuation of Nazis from city. Action foreshadows collapse of German southern flank in Russia.

"A" GASOLINE RATIONS CUT

Mid-West and Far West To Get 2 Gallons a Week Starting March 22.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 14—The basic family car gasoline ration was cut to two gallons a week for the whole nation today when the office of price administration reduced the "A" card allowance from three gallons to two in the midwest and far west areas, effective March 22.

At the same time, the "B" supplementary ration ceiling on the Pacific coast will be trimmed from 480 to 400 miles a month.

No change is scheduled for any of the present rations in the 17 east coast states and the District of Columbia, already on an "A" card allotment of two gallons a week.

"We make these reductions reluctantly," OPA Administrator Chester Bowles said of the west and midwest cuts, "but we are entering a period in which essential demands will be made on our limited supplies of gasoline, and we are entering it with supplies that are sharply limited as the result of war demands."

Preliminary figures show, OPA said, that gasoline allocations for the country as a whole will be about nine per cent less for the second quarter beginning April 1 than for the first quarter. The nation reductions are expected to

One of Marion County's First Group of Selectees Is Wounded in Action

Pfc. Evert G. Overdorff, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Overdorff of Waldo, has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received Jan. 7 while fighting on the Italian front, according to a telegram received from the war department.

The message stated that Pfc. Overdorff, who is an expert machine gunner, suffered arm and leg injuries while manning his gun in the front lines. Because of the seriousness of the arm injuries, his right hand was amputated and more than 10 stitches were required to close the leg wound.

Pfc. Overdorff was one of a group of nine who left on Nov. 25, 1940 as the first Selective Service volunteer group from Marion county.

He is the third among the original nine selectees to become casualties, Technician Dale E. Greenland having been reported missing in action in Italy and Sgt. Alan Shealy having been twice wounded in action.

Prior to his induction into the Army he was employed on a farm just north of Marion. A sister, Mrs. Lee Welsh, lives at 201 South Vine street.

He received training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and a camp in Alabama before he was sent overseas in 1943. A veteran of campaigns in North Africa and Italy, he was in his 10th major battle when he was injured. The message stated that he was in a hospital in North Africa.

SHIPS RUSHED FROM RUMANIA TO RED PORT

Desperate Nazi Action Appears To Foreshadow Collapse of Southern Front.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 14—Every available ship in Rumania's Black sea ports has been rushed to Odessa, an Istanbul dispatch said today. This appeared to foreshadow collapse of the German's broken southern flank in Russia in a vast scale 1944 Dunkerque which would pull the battle line back into obviously frightened Rumania.

The Istanbul dispatch, based on information from Sofia, suggested the Germans were preparing to evacuate Odessa by sea.

Following up Premier Stalin's announcement last night of the capture of Kherson, 90 miles east of Odessa, the German high command's communique said today that base had been evacuated. The communique also said both sides had thrown new reserves into the struggle on the southern sector of the eastern front.

Report 75,000 Nazis Killed

Moscow announced 75,000 Nazis had been killed and captured in 10 days of the broad Soviet offensive in lower Russia. Herson fell to Gen. Rodion K. Malinovsky's Third Ukraine army, made up of Stalingrad veterans, after crossing the lower reaches of the Dnieper.

If it were true that the Nazis had given up all hope of other than a seaborne retreat from their last stand in the Ukraine, this would explain their terrific resistance in the outskirts of Tarnopol in pre-war Poland, where a see-saw fight raged into the sixth day. There the Nazis were making a grim attempt to hold an inland anchor of the front shattered by the combined Red army offensives.

The Russians were pounding within 45 miles of the Dniester river from the northeast. They already had cut the Odessa-Lwow trunk line and left the whole German south flank army with only a cross-border threadwork of single-track spur lines west into Rumania.

These lines would be neither adequate for the supply of 200,000 fighting men—nor for their retreat.

The peril to Odessa—last hope of seaborne escape—already was two-edged with Col. Feodor Tolbukin driving upon Nikolaev from captured Kherson and Malinovsky flanking Nikolaev in his onslaught from the northeast.

75 Miles from Odessa

Both these forces likely were within 75 miles of Odessa today—and unchecked.

To the north, the Red army was within 30 miles of the Rumanian border at three points following advances which, A Soviet communique said, swept up 320 more towns in 24 hours.

Moscow said 350,000 Germans have been killed and 40,000 captured since inception of the Red army winter offensives.

Moscow said the Germans fled "in panic" into Kherson, and when the Red army broke into the city it slaughtered those Nazis who tried to make a stand.

The Russians were menacing the entrances into Rumania at newly taken Skalat, 20 miles southeast of Tarnopol in old Poland; south of the rail junction of Proskurov, in the west Ukraine; and, about 125 miles further south, at Gaiveron on the Bug river.

A new retreat to the Odessa-Lwow trunk rail line, already reported slashed by a 67-mile gap between Tarnopol and Proskurov, was offered by a renewed offensive in the Vinnitsa sector of the western Ukraine.

To the north, on the first Ukraine front, the Russians said they captured more villages near virtually-ringed Proskurov, and in the Dnieper bend west of Krivoi Rog liberated 60 localities.

Rural Sewage Disposal Systems Subject To Regulations of County Health Board

With thawing ground suggesting construction of new sewage disposal systems on farms in rural Marion county, farmers were reminded today of a set of rules passed by the county board of health in 1941, stating that all plans for such systems be submitted to the county board for approval before work starts on any project.

Officials said that any unauthorized work which had been started or completed without approval of the county health officer would be inspected. If any projects are found to be in violation of the code, the work must be done over according to plans accepted by the health office

The code was passed on Oct. 4, 1941, and advertised in The Star three times previous to that date. It is required in the code that any person or company must apply to the county health department for a permit to install any sewage disposal system. The permit will be issued free of cost upon approval of plans, it was explained.

Ready To Assist

County health officials are prepared to assist anyone wishing advice on proper location or construction of sewage disposal plants and sample plans are available at the county health office in the basement of the court house

It was also announced that public buildings must abide by state laws set up for plumbing inspection and the disposal of sewage.

Cardinal points relating to actual construction of private sewage disposal plants are:

In the absence of sanitary sewers, sewage shall be disposed of in a manner to prevent nuisance and avoid contamination of the water supply.

When a sanitary sewer is not accessible, sewage shall be discharged through a water tight sewer into a tank constructed water-tight having a tight, substantial cover with a man-hole for entrance and cleaning. It was explained that the tank must be of an approved size and have a holding capacity of not less than 500 gallons. The tank must be located not less than five feet from a lot line and not less than 10 feet from a building used for human occupancy. It must be at least 30 feet from a private well and 100 feet from a public water supply. "Water-tight" in the code is defined as extra heavy cast iron soil pipe with lead caulked joints. Public water supply means any well, spring, reservoir or other public water supply for public or semi-public use. The reason for the larger berth given public supplies is that usually the water is drawn from a larger area around the outlet.

Rules on Overflows

Overflow from the settling tank must be conveyed in a water-tight sewer to a suitable subsurface leaching device consisting of sand or gravel beds or other devices accepted by the county health officer.

All county residents intending construction of any sort of sewage disposal plant have been asked to contact the county board of health as soon as possible in order to avoid delay when weather becomes suitable for excavation.

★Of our dear husband and father, Albert Davis, who one year ago was accidentally killed while working at Baker Wood Preserving Co., March 13, 1943.

"Dearest Daddy"—time speeds on —one year has passed—
Since the one we loved most was so quickly snatched away—
and we in gloom were cast.
No more upon this earth—we'll see your sweet smiling face—
But "Daddy dear" there is no one in all this world who can ever take your place
Yes—we must journey on without you
Though the days be long and sad—
Looking ever unto Jesus—best friend we ever had—
He it is that comforts when our hearts are burdened so—
And in His precious word He tells us we will meet again—in the promised land—never to part.

BRICKER'S CHIEF AIM IS G. O. P. VICTORY

Governor Praises Saltonstall As He Tours New England.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, March 14—Gov. Bricker of Ohio for the first time yesterday expressed willingness to accept the Republican vice presidential nomination.

Heretofore the three-term Ohio executive has been an avowed candidate for the presidential nomination only.

Disclosure of Bricker's attitude toward second place on the G. O. P. ticket was made at a press conference. In response to a query concerning possibility Massachusetts Gov. Leverett Saltonstall might be his running mate, Bricker declared:

"I would be glad to have Saltonstall as my running mate, or to run for vice president if the convention picked Saltonstall to head the ticket."

Bricker said he had failed to win any pledges to his candidacy from New England delegates expecting election to the national convention, but asserted "I don't think my visit here was wasted."

He predicted the Republican party would win the national election if it "picks its strongest candidate."

Interviewed at Saltonstall's office yesterday, he declared again he wanted to see "a Republican elected president more than I want to be elected president myself. I'll support the party's nominee."

The Ohio governor is scheduled to bring his New England visit to a close today, following a noon speech at Springfield, Mass.

Dependable Furniture for 78 Years

Home Owners Make Good Citizens---

You do not necessarily have to own a "house" to own a "home." It is possible to have a fine home in a rented house.

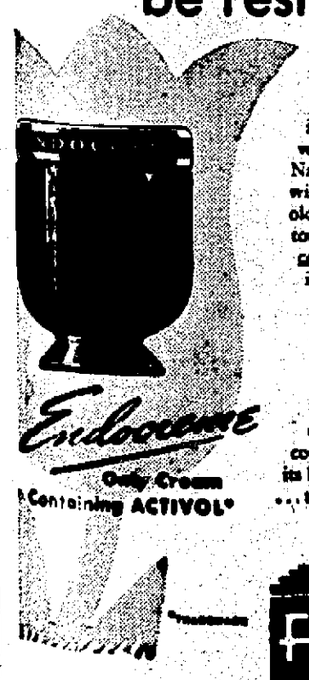
You cannot have much of a "home," whether you own the house or rent it, if you have dilapidated furniture or an environment that does not produce the sentiment necessary to get a real "home" atmosphere.

The children brought up in a properly furnished home form better and more lasting friendships than the children who are brought up merely surrounded by "furniture."

The man of the house becomes a better citizen when he is proud of the way his home is furnished.

The wife and daughter become more ... when ... more ...

Can that "younger look" be restored?



Now...in many cases, yes! For Science has made a revolutionary discovery. Doctors have found there is a "vitalizing" substance that is always necessary for a pretty young skin. Naturally as this substance decreases with age, skins start to dry and look older. But now the ENDOCREME laboratories have found how to bring you a counterpart of this substance...replacing the natural substance for your skin. It is called ACTIVOL* and brought to you only by Endocreme. Results of its use are remarkable! Skins which lacked this substance begin to look smoother, firmer, fresher again! Many skins take on new appearance of "bloom." This precious ingredient costs only 11½¢ a day! So start to get its benefits! Ask at our Cosmetic Counter ...today...for ENDOCREME!

A Marion boy, Capt. Thomas C. Fetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin C. Fetter of Carhart street, was recognized in an official photo printed last Thursday in The Star showing an American liaison radio team at work in an operations hut headquarters in New Guinea.

The family recognized the young man because he had written last fall when the pictures were taken telling them about the incident saying they would probably be published some time. Since then they have anxiously scanned every type of photo appearing in the papers and were more or less on the lookout for this particular one making it easier to recognize the boy.

That Fetter was a member of the group was revealed when Mrs. Fetter came to get some extra copies of the Thursday issue of The Star in which it appeared.

Fetter enlisted in the Army air forces in November of 1941, training at various places until he received his wings and second lieutenant's commission from Albuquerque, N. M., in July, 1942. Overseas since August of 1942, he was stationed for some time in Hawaii and later was assigned to the southwest Pacific area. Letters from him later informed the parents that he was based in New Guinea.

A brother, Gene, is now stationed with the air corps in Thomasville, Ga.

Rural deaths in 1943 decreased 23 per cent as compared with 1942.

Average Motorist Must Wait To Buy Auto After War

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT, March 14—If the purchase of a new automobile is high on the list of your post-war plans it might be well to understand—if you are an average individual—that it may be two years after the war before you can lay down your cash and drive away the car you want.

The motorcar industry will reach the end of the war with a huge backlog of demand. Before it can get back to the required production level of more than 20,000 units a week, the factories must reconvert fully to peace-time activities.

So industry heads are urging motorists to intensify rather than let down on the care they have been giving their present vehicles.

Normal output volume of the industry in the decade immediately preceding the war was around 4,000,000 units a year, of which more than half were sold as replacement for scrapped vehicles.

Estimates of the volume of unsatisfied demand in the post-war period have ranged from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 passenger cars, depending upon how long the war cuts off production. On top of this, will be additional replacement demand that will pile up even more rapidly after the war when virtually all cars that were five years old in 1941 will be operating on borrowed time.

Most car makers have predicted they could get back into production within four months after reconversion is authorized. But they emphasize that, even after they reach normal output, they will still be far behind the accumulated demand for new cars. Some sources it has been said that the industry will not catch up with the backlog in five years of above normal output.

At the end of 1941, the registration of passenger automobiles in the United States stood at 29,507,113. Something like 6,000,000 of these have been taken out of use because of the war and wartime restrictions. Probably another 6,000,000 will go to the scrap pile this year.

In the pre-war days, industry analysts figured the average life of the average car at slightly more than seven years. The pinch of necessity has extended this considerably, but at the cost of continuous and expensive servicing.

PROTEST AAA GAS APPLICATION PLAN

COLUMBUS, O., March 14 — More than score of farmers from nine counties today headed a petition against a ruling that application must be made to the agricultural adjustment administration for farm gasoline rations.

The group asked the help of the attorney general's office here yesterday and was told the state could take no action because they were protesting against a federal ruling. Spokesmen for the farmers said they would return to their home counties and continue the fight there.

The farmers came from Franklin, Richland, Darke, Shelby, Miami, Mercer, Preble, Montgomery and Warren counties.

"We will permit our farms to lay idle before we will submit to AAA questioning in order to get the required gasoline to operate farm machinery," asserted H. H. Fackler of Plymouth chairman of the Ohio Wheat Marketing Quota Protest Association.

Crawford Co. To Protest Gas Ration Plan

BUCYRUS, March 14—Formal protest will be made against any activity on the part of the agricultural adjustment administration in administering gasoline rationing in Crawford county, Wednesday night, when the Bucyrus ration board meets for its regular meeting, according to an announcement made today by Archie Harer, representative of the Crawford county branch of the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest association.

Plans are also in the making to secure state representatives of the association, to appear before the board at its meeting here Wednesday night.

AIM NOW IS TO WIPE OUT NAZI AIR FORCE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 14 — The bombardment of all other strategic targets in Germany by the United States air force has been relegated to a back seat in favor of an all-out campaign to exterminate the German air force, it was learned today.

The U. S. strategic air force is so eager to do so—and so sure it can—that it swung into a deliberate campaign last week to tangle with the German air force head-on and left off its tactics of trying to avoid the German fighters and splitting them up by diversionary attacks.

This new extermination campaign is two-edged. When the weather is good the impact is primarily on the Germans' ground resources as airplane factories. When the weather is bad the aim is to make attacks through the overcast so destructive the German air force will be compelled to send up fighters to oppose the Fortresses and Liberators—which can shoot them down.

One speculation here is that if continuously perfect weather over the continent prevailed—an impossible ideal — it might be possible to knock the German air force out of the sky in a month or two.

The suggestion made in London last week that the German people be given a warning when big air attacks are coming did not meet with the hoots from the U. S. strategic air force headquarters that might have been expected.

(But it is unlikely any regular system of warning the German people will ever be taken under serious consideration, since the stand of allied air leaders has been that the German people are so thoroughly mobilized into the war effort it is hard to distinguish between the importance of the contribution of those in uniform and those not in uniform.)

That Wasn't the Idea

FAR from murmuring gratitude because Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and the heads of congressional tax committees are reported in agreement on income tax simplification, the ordinary or garden variety taxpayer is chattering with dumb fear at the onrushing prospect of disaster. He wanted his tax form simplified, all right, but it never was his idea to lose his individual rights in the bargain.

What the simplification collaborators are getting ready to do—for the assistance of the ordinary taxpayer, they say—is to punish him for everything that may be extraordinary in his financial situation, such as a whopping big doctor bill, the interest on the house he is struggling to buy and the extra large contribution to good works he may be moved to make by his own generosity and the proddings of high pressure salesmanship. They are going to figure out a statistical average for deductions and impose the averages on taxpayers willy-nilly, jamming the round pegs into the square holes, the square ones into the round holes and devil take the hexagonal ones. As far as the tax simplifiers are concerned, if a taxpayer isn't average from now on, that's his tough luck, not theirs.

This is not what the people of the United States meant when they wished for tax simplification. They wanted tax forms and tax instruction sheets written in non-bureaucratic, non-legalistic English so they could understand what they were supposed to do without costly resort to experts in mumbo-jumbo. They did not ask for the outright removal of the few gestures still left under present tax laws to recognize that human beings are not statistical abstractions to be run through the wringer and squeezed dry of the same amount of revenue, whether they have it or not.

Hendrik Willem Van Loon

IT IS a reasonable guess that Hendrik Willem Van Loon may be remembered for his paradoxical weakness of seeing things too clearly. His critics have no trouble proving that some of the things he saw most clearly either weren't there, or at least were partly concealed from other eyes.

But Van Loon's basic idea was that he should give others the benefit of his own vast range of interest and comprehension. He was, in one sense, an educator in the field of popular knowledge. His works on history, the Bible, geography, exploration and art, while they may have been sketched in too broadly for the taste of the most discriminating student, had an important effect on the reading public's reservoir of information and interest. Other writers to come may thank him for pioneering, and other readers to come may remember his name gratefully if the possibilities he disclosed in the field of making information readable by the twist of a wrist are exploited in the years to come.

Off the Form Sheet

THE emotional impulse in partisan politics causes some strange deductions to be drawn from the form sheets. There is the further handicap that the form sheets, themselves, are subject to error.

Still, if an objective appraisal is possible on the basis of recent special elections, including the one this week in Colorado's 1st district where Republicans captured a formerly Democratis seat in congress, it would indicate the Democratic party is feeling the adverse effects of 11 years of policies never fully accepted by more than a tenuous majority of voters.

What this may indicate as to the outcome of the presidential election is problematic: other factors may complicate the issue there. It does indicate, however, that in the people's decisions at the federal level closest to them—the election of members of congress—they are in a mood to challenge the present majority.

Off the form sheet so far, a Republican majority in the next house of representatives is a virtual certainty.

The King's Palace

BEARDSLEY RUML, chairman of the federal reserve bank of New York, seems to be a man who makes a hobby of doing his own thinking. He thought his way through the so-called Ruml plan for tax reform, one of the clearest ideas ever manhandled by muddled legislators, and he is thinking his way through the public works malarkey currently being foisted on the public.

Mr. Ruml thinks if the public spenders will hold their horses after the war there will be enough private building, together with whatever public works are indispensable, to keep the construction industry vigorous for years without any shots in the arm at all. All it will take, he has concluded, is a little patience and some determination not to get panicky.

Mr. Ruml is familiar, no doubt, with the characteristic appearance of towns and cities in those parts of the world where the government and its parasites are the only possessors of enough money to build anything more pretentious than a hut. All the public buildings are beautiful. There are public works galore. But there is nothing else. When there's nothing left to build in America but public buildings, it will all be over but the dying flutters of a moribund civilization. There's no prosperity in the king's palace for anyone but the king.

News Behind the News

Two Elections Held So Far Point to Definite G.O.P. Trend in Country.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 14—The Republican defeat in the upper New York City congressional district was probably a greater victory than the success in Colorado—and just as significant.

The Republican candidate, William S. Bennet, was a mild, 73-year old former congressman who ran on the uninspiring platform of superior experience. (He had been in congress several times as far back as 1905.)

The Democrats thought their man would have no trouble as their majority two years ago was two to one by a margin of 30,000 votes. But the Republicans got busy at the last moment and cut their defeat to an amazing 1,751 votes.

The Colorado victory had been expected for some weeks, but out there, the winning Republican was what would be called here an ultra conservative. He was hotly against the New Deal and a business man, an occupation which is supposed to make anyone a conservative.

Trend of Country

The trend disclosed in these two elections is now obviously and undeniably the trend of the entire country. The surprising extent of anti-administration feeling in the congressional by-elections first became conclusively apparent in Kentucky.

But even before that a majority of Republican governors (26) had been elected in states aside from the solid south. Outside of Washington, you might say this has become a Republican country.

The question then is whether Mr. Roosevelt can beat back this tide. The Republican governors naturally have active political organizations in the most powerful states, something they have never had since 1932—and organizations win elections.

Present Outlook

Most Democratic authorities here privately concede that even if Mr. Roosevelt gets a fourth term, he probably will lose control of congress. They are counting on his personality and their expectation that the war will be on.

No sound bets could be made on that for probably eight months yet. If the war is still on, the people may start asking why it has not been ended sooner and may desire a change in its conduct, contrary to the popular notion now.

The old adage about not changing horses in mid-stream may weaken as the stream grows wider.

G. O. P. Prospects

Identity of the Republican nominee should be clearly foreseen within 30 to 60 days. First test, in New Hampshire today, is likely to be indecisive. Five different tickets will be voted upon—one unpledged, one for Willkie, one unpledged but thought to be for him, and the others for Dewey and MacArthur. A mixed delegation is likely.

But, by the end of April, results will be in from Wisconsin, Oklahoma, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Massachusetts.

Hardly a Republican authority now exists here who does not expect Dewey to get the lion's share of the delegates, and even the Gallup Poll has upped its January guess of 42 per cent to more than 60 per cent of the Republican vote of the country.

Senate Vote Delayed

Quietly the Republicans have decided to let election of a new senate leader go over indefinitely. Polls taken privately indicate the post would have gone and probably will eventually go to Senator Taft of Ohio.

Incidentally, while there may be scrapping among Republicans out in the country, a more complete harmony exists on the inside here than ever before.

The congressional leaders are working in unity with the Republican national committee, ending the sub-rosa tussle that has been going on intermittently for years.

Today and Tomorrow

Need Seen for Clarification of Allied Policy As War Develops.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THERE is disquit in London and Washington over the political conduct of the war. Those who do the worrying are worrying about two main things.

One is that in eastern Europe in the path of the advancing Red Army the dominant voice in dealing with Finland, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia is that of Soviet Russia. The other is that in western and southern Europe, which is within the orbit of our armies, the voice of London and Washington in dealing with France, Italy, Spain is unclear and uncertain.

Before we jump from those facts to serious conclusions about the future peace of the world, we must bear in mind that within a reasonable period of time—say six to 18 months—the whole shape and character of the global war is going to be altered. We shall invade the continent of Europe and there will then be not one United Nations army—the Red Army—on the contingent but four—the Russian, the British, the French and the American.

If the invasion is successful, the military stalement in the Mediterranean will be ended and with it the political stalement over Italy, Spain, Turkey and Greece. Finally, the defeat of Germany in Europe will at once change radically the relation not only of Britain but of Soviet Russia to the war in the Pacific.

There have been serious and, I believe, avoidable errors of judgment in our Mediterranean policy. But the controlling fact, which we must never lose sight of, has been that the Mediterranean campaign has been subordinate both to the war in the Pacific and to the coming invasion of the continent. The Mediterracan campaigns in Libya, North Africa and now in Italy have always been conducted with limited forces, our main amphibious power is concentrated in the central Pacific and in England.

Because the Allied forces in the Mediterranean have been limited, the political conduct of those campaigns has not been bold and forceful and forthright but nervous, devious and appeasing. We have been worried about France, about Vichy, about the king and Badoglia and about the Arabs, because we do not have indubitable military superiority in this theater.

DeGaulle's Role

The capital and critical case has been the President's misjudgment of the latent strength and of the rising importance of Gen. de Gaulle. We should never have permitted ourselves to quarrel with de Gaulle. We should always have dealt with him, quietly until we had overcome the resistance of Vichy in North Africa, and then openly and warmly as the champion of the French nation. We should have recognized the French committee as the representatives of France, and have sought its advice and assistance in our dealings with all European questions.

We should not have made such a muddle of our relations with Poland and Yugoslavia if France, which is their historic friend, had been our intermediary.

Our relations with Russia must be considered in relation to the whole war—the war in Europe and in eastern Asia. In the long run the controlling fact, I believe, will be that in the European theater the Russians carry the main burden and look to the British and ourselves for the additional force needed to reach an early military decision; but in the Pacific theater we carry the main burden and shall be looking to the Russians for the additional force to bring about an early decision.

Power Politics

In Europe the Russians are wholly committed to the defeat of Germany. But if we hold back and let them win the German war for us, they would not only dominate Europe, they would also hold back—because they would be war weary and because they would be resentful—while we won the war for them in Asia.

If we intervened in Europe only to share in the victory that the Red Army had done much the most to achieve, Russia would naturally intervene in Asia only when she could capitalize the victory which we had done the most to achieve.

To say this is to say only what every student of the history of war knows: That the kind and the degree of military collaboration during a war will inexorably determine how much political collaboration there is in settling the war. The final and full military collaboration of the western Allies and Russia in the settlement of the whole war is as yet only a pledge and a promise.

"Why, those yellow McCords! Gittin' outsiders to do their feudin'!"

The Problems of Lasting Peace

By Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson

(This is another installment of the newly-revised, up-to-the-minute version of their important book, The Problems of Lasting Peace, prepared especially for this series by Herbert Hoover, thirty-first President of the United States and Hugh Gibson, former minister to Poland and Ambassador to Belgium and Brazil.)

INSTALLMENT VIII
ECONOMIC FORCES AND PEACE

THE relief from economic pressures which makes for friction and war is one of the greatest of all problems that must be solved in this peacemaking.

Experience of the last war and its aftermath proves that these problems fall into two categories. The first are the urgent problems which arise from the disruption of war. The second are the long range problems of rebuilding prosperity in the world and of allaying the economic pressures that make for war.

Certainly, through the history of modern civilization, economic forces have played a large part in war. It was the wealth of the Indies which stimulated the great explorations and conquests of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Pressures of overpopulation to find outlets for emigration have long played a striking part on the stage of war. The cravings for security in supply of raw materials and places to sell surplus products have led to incessant friction, hate, fear and war. Insistence that "trade follows the flag" has cost rivers of blood and untold sorrow. Economic forces have also in other times and other circumstances acted as a restraint on war.

The economic consequences of the Treaty of Versailles were disastrous. It not only failed to heal the economic wounds of the world but opened new ones. The continuation of the blockade during the Armistice caused steady economic degeneration.

The preposterous method of collecting reparations created periodic world jitters over its periodic readjustment. About the only constructive economic action at Versailles was the relief of several hundred million starving people and action under the relief to restore communications and transportation.

The world will be faced with greater economic disorder both international and domestic than after the last war. It, therefore, becomes doubly important that we create an international economic climate favorable to world recovery.

The long-range international economic tasks of peace settlements will be concerned chiefly with trade barriers, currency, credit, raw materials, emigration, freedom of the seas and air, reparations and inter-governmental debts.

A large number of these problems arise from the growth of government activities in international economic life since the first world war.

THUS the problem is partly an idealogical one for it involves the question of the return of the world to private enterprise versus economic totalitarianism, pure or mixed. If the purpose of world reconstruction is to give freedom to men, then the return toward economic freedom is essential to the survival of other freedoms. It would be ironic that a war for freedom should end in such a defeat of personal liberty.

One of the problems both of trade barriers and world economic peace will arise from governmental control of currency and credit, export and import of goods, government shipping and air transport. At once we may state that these observations to follow do not apply to the emergency relief measures which must be undertaken after the war, but to the long-view setup in the world.

If the world is to have recovery, prosperity, and higher standards of living the aim of foreign trade should be the maximum practical exchange of goods and services. Private traders cannot compete with governments, for governments can rely upon taxes to pay their losses.

If there is to be a restoration of the maximum volume of international trade, there must be ultimate removal of all direct or indirect government control of buying and selling of goods in foreign markets.

There are also peace aspects in government trading. When governments engage in exchange of commodities, or credit or financial controls, or in the conduct of shipping, they become higglers in the market and competitors with other peoples and other governments. Thus, all the usual conflicts and frictions of the market as to price, quantity, credit, and a thousand other things become conflicts and frictions between governments and finally lodge in their State Departments. There they arouse national emotions. Under private traders, such activities do not involve governments, and thereby avoid centralizing their cumulative effects into international frictions. The Russian government has of course ducted their entire foreign trade.

WE believe the whole experience of the last twenty years of direct or indirect government trading in commodities, credit and shipping has demonstrated that it is alive with international friction and threats to peace.

We suggest that American policies should be directed to restore freedom of private enterprise in foreign trade.

Government-permitted or encouraged cartels or monopolies in international trade have many of the aspects of direct government trading.

These formations outside of the United States have increased greatly since the last war. They are likely, unless dealt with, to increase still further after this war. We in the United States prevent the functioning of such organizations by the Anti-Trust Laws.

We suggest that American policies should be directed to abolish all cartels and monopolies in foreign trade.

Quotas are again a government interference and a barrier to trade, for they can be organized and administered only by governments. This invention has been discovered since the last war and is one of the worst of all human devices in obstruction of the free movement of goods. Quotas constitute a complete wall against trade, with doors open only to favored nations and in favored amounts. This device has also been used by the United States, Great Britain and a number of smaller nations.

We suggest that the American policy should be their total abolition.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, March 14, 1934.

Francis W. Bacon of South Vine street was appointed supervisor of the Marion county state liquor store.

The Marion Production Credit association, providing short-time loans to finance farm operations, announced it would begin operations the following week with a Marion office serving Marion, Crawford, Hardin, Wyandot and Morrow counties.

Will Rogers, commenting on recent action of the President in halting army operation of air mail routes following a heavy toll of the military fliers in plane crashes, wrote, "Sure, the army said they could fly the mails: be a fine army that would say, 'No, sir, Mr. President, we can't fly 'em.' If my movie company says, 'We are producing Shakespeare, how about it? Yes, sir, I can't do it like the Barrymores, but I will give it an awful tussel. The Romeo part may ground loop me, but I will take old Hamlet over the mountains on the darkest night. And tomorrow if the President calls in the navy and says, 'Can you relieve the farmer?' that admiral will say, 'Yes, sir, the ships will be ready at 12 o'clock to take him off the farm'."

Senator Wagner of New York predicted a new economic collapse unless labor were given fuller participation in the recovery program. He said at a senate committee hearing that labor should be given the right of collective bargaining without company interference.

Samuel Insull, American utilities operator, fled from Athens, Greece, on the eve of his expulsion, and his wife said she did not know where he had gone.

Epsilon circle of the Child Conservation league was organized at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Miriam Cheney on East Church street. She was elected president.

Thomas Hopley, 80, pioneer publisher and temperance leader at Bucyrus, died in Enid, Okla.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, March 14, 1924.

Curtis D. Wilbur, chief justice of the California supreme court, accepted appointment to the post of secretary of the navy, tendered him by President Coolidge, following resignation of Secretaary Edwin Denby.

Mrs. Andilla Kennedy Watts, 66, died at her home near Morral.

It was announced that Marion had been selected as the meeting place of the Ohio Newspaper Women's association in 1924 and the state organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution in 1925.

Women were urged to place their organizations back of a movement for law enforcement in addresses given at a meeting of Marion women at the First Presbyterian church. The speakers were Mrs. William H. Alexander of Columbus, member of the Ohio Council of Churches, Mrs. John Gordon Battelle of Columbus, a member of the National Committee of 100, R. G. Farmer of Zanesville, and Mayor M. L. Buckley.

The Cleveland, Southwestern & Columbus interurban railway, the main line of which extended from Cleveland to Bucyrus, was sold at receiver's sale in Elyria to a Cleveland financial house said to represent a committee of stockholders which planned reorganization of the road.

Post-War Jobs

Many Places Will Be Open When Civilians Return To Normal Conditions.

By STANLEY RUKEYSER

VOLUNTARY service on the home front is making it feasible to carry on our civilian economy, despite enormous diversion of manpower to the armed services and to war work.

Unheralded and unsung, physically unfit and older men are doing vitally important voluntary work which is preventing a breakdown in civilian operations. For example, many business and professional men in some communities are devoting a night a week to driving ambulances for civilian hospitals. Women, replacing professional nurses who have gone into the armed services, are serving as nurses' aids.

When Johnny comes marching home after victory over the Axis, many volunteer workers will step aside to make room for paid professionals. This will absorb large numbers of mustered-out soldiers.

In the aggregate, a stupendous quantity of key work, including the duties of civilian defense workers and airplane spotters, has been performed as unremunerated effort on the part of those who merely wanted to serve their country. The effect of such effort still has not been fully appraised in relation to the total manpower shortage and to prospects for post-war employment.

As an offset to the release of manpower after the war through demobilization of the armed services and through cancellation of war orders in factories, many activities, sidetracked or neglected for the duration, will be resumed. These include service and repair occupations which have been undermanned for the duration. Likewise, with the ending of the abnormal status of sellers' markets, there will be an expanding need for manpower in sales and merchandising activities.

THE pre-war ratio of those engaged in physical production—making things—with those engaged in service occupations will be restored, with the swing back into service activities which have been skimped during the war.

After reconversion, peace industries, such as automobiles, radio and household electrical appliances, which have been shut down for the duration, will be reopened. They will absorb manpower directly and indirectly. There will be considerable transitional employment in the work of reconverting factories as we beat our guns back into plowshares.

In other words, the orderly transition from a war economy to a peace economy is feasible, provided we have the wit and the foresight to adopt sound government policies. The Baruch-Hancock plant, like the senate's George committee program, represents an attempt to deal forehandedly with such knotty problems. It is extremely important during the transitional period to have harmony between the legislative and executive departments, so congress may be and executive departments, so congress may be ever discretionary authority may be necessary.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

DEAR NEPHEW: I want to play cribbage so bad tonight I can taste it, but your aunt is away to a meeting somewhere doing good and it is a bad night to go traipsing around hunting for someone else to beat.

I am not sure what kind of good your aunt is doing at this particular time. She does so darned much good day in and day out that it is hard for me to keep track of all of it. I suspect I am just another one of her projects, along with knitting sweaters for refugees and sailors, passing along the good word to the heathens in darkest Africa, protecting wild life, seeing to it that everybody has a good book to read, uplifting the fallen, bracing up the tottering and so on.

It has been one of the things about her that has kept me amazed now for the last 40-odd years, and it is not just confined to your aunt. Most of the good women of her acquaintances in these parts spend hours of their time doing good, and I suppose the same thing goes on all over the country. I have an idea that if the statisticians would go to work on this they might prove that the good which the women of this country do is one of our greatest industries, next to mining coal, grinding out pre-digested breakfast food and selling stuff on the installment plan.

When I think of the effort that goes into arranging for the meetings alone—the potato salad, the rooty-tooty sandwiches, the layer cakes, the dusting and polishing and primping—it is enough to build a 40-foot highway along the ridge of the Rocky mountains and dig a canal straight across this country from east to west at the thickest point. But do not get the idea that I am making fun of this. I think it is probably our greatest national asset.

These upright and ever-striving ladies have organized us ump-steen ways from Sunday. They haven't left a stone unturned. You name it, sonny, and they've either done it already or are just about to tie on their aprons and wade into it. They can collect more money and make more chips fly in a week than the men could get around to in six months, provided the men could be talked into trying it in the first place.

There's something about women that makes them organize as naturally as flies at a picnic. All you have to do is think up some kind of good works project and women will trample each other in the rush. But confound it, I still wish your aunt had stayed home tonight to play cribbage with me. I'm being neglected and I think I'll go to bed and pretend to be asleep when she comes home. Tomorrow morning I'll let out a few roars and by tomorrow night she will be wanting to know if she can't stir me up a mess of fudge. I'm not a bad little organizer myself, kiddo, when I stick to my specialty. It's going to bust out and be spring up here any minute now.

Battle of Burma To Tell Story of Road Into China

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

"Suggest analysis of recent developments in Burma," writes a southern newspaper publisher who breathes the adventurous spirit of Marco Polo.

That's never an easy assignment, for readers must find military operations hard to follow in that primordeal region where the world is still young. However, we can agree that there's a fascination in this mysterious zone up under "the roof of the world" where Yankee and allied troops are fighting.

This really is a continuation of our column's previous story of a road, or rather two roads — the Ledo and our old friend the Burma road, which was China's lifeline to the outside world before the Japanese overran Burma. When the invaders cut the latter road they left the Chinese end of it up in the air, so to speak.

Planes Take Over

As the result of that catastrophe American transport planes under our Lt. Gen "Uncle Joe" Stilwell took over the job of supplying the hard-hit Chinese. Meanwhile American engineers drove a new highway northeastward through the Indian territory west of Burma to the town of Ledo which is just across the narrow northern tip of Burma from the severed end of the Burma road in Chinese territory.

Completion of the Ledo road was achieved some time ago and the problem then became how to join it to the Burma highway. The Nipponese rushed troops into the far north to keep the allied forces from joining up the new life-line, and sporadic fighting developed.

Six months ago Uncle Joe set his fighting jaw and made himself a new strategy for ousting the enemy from northern Burma. We are seeing the results of this plan now. Working from Ledo, Stilwell sent specially trained Chinese troops into the Hukwang valley and they pushed southward towards the Japanese base of Maingkwan.

Simultaneously youthful Brig. General Frank Merrill, with seasoned jungle fighters fresh from the Pacific warfare, drove across mountains and through the terrible jungles, and came at the enemy in the Maingkwan region from the south. This created the trap which killed 2,000 Japanese and surrounded maybe 2,000.

Smash Is Slow

American and Chinese forces are continuing to smash southward in the Hukwang valley. That word "smash" is a euphemism, by the way, for an Associated Press dispatch yesterday said they "advanced two miles in 24 hours." That's how hard the going is in this fever-ridden, snake-infested jungle country. This Stilwell expedition undoubtedly is headed ultimately for the Japanese super base of Myitkyina, south of the Hukwang valley.

Today a fresh development is reported. British troops have crossed from Assam into Burma west of Myitkyina, presumably with the idea of hitting that base from the south while Stilwell smashes at it from the north.

The objectives of these epic operations really are threefold. They are (1) to permit of the joining of the Ledo and Burma roads; (2) to create new allied air bases, and (3) to keep the Japanese from crossing into the Chinese province of Yunnan and attacking Chiang from the rear.

Stilwell's campaign is a gallant effort, but we shouldn't expect miracles. Also we should remember that this is only spade-work for the final big drive.

Parts of the complicated turbo-superchargers used in high-altitude bombers are made by an adaptation of a process used by sculptors.

BROWN

sions even ahead of a speedy winning of the war."

Asserting that the chairman of the rules committee had refused a hearing on this resolution, Brown asked: "Why has the word seemingly gone out from high sources to kill my resolution and to prevent at all costs the investigation I have suggested? If the practices which I condemn, and of which so many fighting men complain in their letters home, have not been followed and do not exist, then why should anyone object to an investigation?

What Is There to Hide?

"It seems to me that if these agencies of government, charged with the responsibility of disseminating news and informational material to our armed forces have carried on their work well and properly they would want the congress and the country to know just what they have done. * * * but when they take the opposite attitude, and the word goes out to block the naming of an investigating committee at any cost, then the suspicion grows that there must be much to hide."

Brown said that President Roosevelt's speech on the soldier vote bill in which he favored a federal ballot and criticised the state ballot plan "was purely a political document prepared and distributed not only for political use on the home front but especially for its political effect on the armed forces."

He declared that OWI news was played in a manner to favor the administration.

"I have noticed," Brown said, "the news releases from OWI and other governmental agencies, going overseas to our armed forces, carry what we call in newspaperdom 'reverse English' which means to play up or to so report news as to create a poor impression of the particular candidate, public official, or side of an issue opposed to the publisher. A clever editor can always stay within the confines of the exact truth and still so color the news as to favor one candidate or one point of view."

Brown said OWI controls motion pictures that reach the troops and furnishes a great portion of the news by radio and dispatch.

All persons in the accident suffered somewhat from exposure, standing in a drizzling rain while waiting for ambulances to take them to the hospital. SOFT GROUND BLOCKS FIGHTING IN ITALY

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, March 14—The weather has improved in Italy but the ground remains extremely soft, holding both allied and German armies mudbound except for patrol operations which yesterday included sharp clashes near Minturno and Cassino on the main Fifth army front, headquarters announced today.

The Germans launched a fairly strong attack from three directions against Indian positions on the Eighth army front last Sunday, it was announced today, and fighting lasted until the Germans withdrew. Artillery, mortars and small arms broke up other attacks during the night.

The German raided the beachhead five times Sunday, but no damage was reported.

Bombers raided road and rail traffic south of Rome and gun positions and supply dumps in the beachhead area as well as shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

It was learned that the Badoglio government had kept allied authorities informed on the negotiations with Russia. Badoglio also has asked Britain and the United States for an exchange of diplomats.

Paolo Tedeschi, one chieftain, expressed belief that Premier Stalin had no intention of indulging the king or Badoglio, but was merely taking a "rapid realistic step in Soviet foreign policy."

The communique announcing that Russia and Italy were exchanging representatives was accompanied by a message from Badoglio to Stalin declaring "all the Italian people are fully conscious of the imposing and victorious Soviet war effort."

An official Italian spokesman said resumption of relations with Russia represented "the closing of a chapter and the opening of a new phase of Italian international life," and declared the Red army's action against Germany "confers upon Russia a prevailing place both in the war today and the peace tomorrow."

The spokesman asserted "the new Italy," during the six months she has been a co-belligerent with the United Nations, "has given conclusive proof of her good will, her loyalty and her decided and firm intention of total cooperation with the United Nations."

(A London dispatch said Andrei J. ishinsky, Soviet member of the inter-allied advisory council on Italian affairs, was expected to be named the Russian ambassador).

Sen. Barkley Opposes Soldier Vote Measure

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 14 — Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) announced today he would vote and speak against senate approval of the compromise version of the servicemen's vote bill, under which state ballots would have the right-of-way.

Although Barkley's decision was regarded in some quarters as presaging a presidential veto of the measure, which would permit only limited use of federal ballots by overseas troops, the majority leader said he was not informed of the President's attitude.

"My decision was made independent of the veto question," Barkley told reporters. "I do not know what the President intends to do."

Even with Barkley's support, senate advocates of a simple ballot were admittedly outnumbered.

HALIFAXES STRIKE IN NIGHT ATTACK

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 4—RAF Halifaxes droning out under a waning "bomber's moon" staged a heavy attack last night on the strategic railway center of Le Mans in western France, while Mosquitos struck at Frankfurt and other places in western Germany.

It was the second bombardment of Le Mans—115 miles southwest of Paris and in six nights. Two bombers were lost during the night.

The precision blow was another explosive punch in the new allied day-and-night campaign against Nazi transportation facilities all over France.

The Germans, their "blitz" revival at least temporarily subsiding to sneak raids, for the second successive night sent a small force over the south coast of England, dropping a few bombs harmlessly and setting off sirens in one London area.

The campaign against rail targets in France began March 2.

The night fliers also laid mines in enemy waters. One plane was lost on intruder patrols over the continent.

that course in allowing axis representatives to remain in Eire.

The Eire view is that had she turned over sea bases to the Allies early in the war, alien possession of the country would have followed in a short time.

Against the American contention that the fight against the axis is Ireland's fight as much as that of any other freedom-loving nation, an Eire government official declared, "as everybody ought to know, we and America are brothers. If America misunderstands, we are profoundly distressed. But we cannot afford to have partition recognized so long as partition continues our attitude will be one of absolute neutrality and we cannot be influenced by the question of whether or not we'll have friends after the war.

"Materially we should have everything to gain by going to war. As it is, we must pay in material losses and in an unfair hostility toward us because we are not in."

New Evidence Cited in Collett Motion

WASHINGTON C. H., O., March 14—Counsel for James W. Collett, seeking a new trial for the 60-year-old hog breeder doomed by a jury to die for the McCoy triple murders, asserted yesterday they had discovered evidence "impeaching" testimony of a state witness.

The motion for a new trial set forth 14 points, chiefly what the defense contended were errors by the court and the assertion that the evidence did not support the guilty verdict.

The last point struck specifically at the testimony of Rollo S. Kirk, a rebuttal witness for the state, who told the jury he saw Collett in Sabina the night of the slayings at about the same hour Collett had said he was miles away at the community of Harveysburg. Sabina is about 15 miles away from the McCoy home.

In an affidavit filed with the motion, Roscoe Windross said Kirk told him last Jan. 27 he had seen Collett in Wilmington the night of the slayings, and that several weeks later he saw Kirk conferring with Sheriff W. H. Icenhower and that Kirk then said he saw Collett in Sabina the death night.

37TH IS BATTLING ON CANNON RIDGE

By The Associated Press

GUADALCANAL, SOLOMON ISLANDS, March 14—Fighting on "Cannon Ridge" on Bougainville where Japanese are making suicidal lunges at allied Empress Augusta bay positions has been so intense that one frontline company's mortars "froze" from overheating and had to be changed under fire.

Lt. Col. Robert Chamberlin, of the 37th division and former assistant safety director of Cleveland, O., directing the American's artillery fire, said "in the last 24 hours, we dropped between 10,000 and 12,000 rounds into the positions."

The heaviest Japanese attack came at 6 a. m. Saturday.

"They opened up just after dawn and pressed their attack until about 10 a. m.," said Lt. Col. G. G. Free, Ashland, O., commander of the troop which broke the assault.

"We're still holding," he said.

Staff Sgt. John Hunkel, Warren, O., is credited with crawling out of a pillbox and destroying a Japanese machinegun crew with his Browning automatic.

Overflow Crowd Sees Opening of Golden Gloves Fights at Armory

Another Show Set for Tonight with Finals Friday.

Marion's 1944 edition of the Golden Gloves boxing tournament got off to an auspicious start at the Armory last night, with an overflow crowd jamming the standing room space to see 10 lively bouts that filed over the canvas in rapid-fire order. Some 200 persons were turned away because of lack of space.

About 700 persons managed to get seats or standing room, officials estimating that fully 200 persons stood to see the matches.

Although the program ran past the midnight mark, the first round of matches was not completed. Seven or eight more first-round encounters and about an equal number of semi-finals are to be on the program tonight at 8.

If the program moves on schedule, there will be only one more night of the tournament after tonight. That will come Friday when nine finals matches are scheduled to disclose the list of winners in the various weight divisions.

Show Well Handled

Praise of last night's show was heard from all quarters after the fights. The contestants, although most were purely amateurs with comparatively little ring experience, made a good showing and their enthusiasm overshadowed any lack of professional ability. Too, the show was praised because of the way it was handled. With a large volume of fights to present, the Y's Men's Service club which is sponsoring the big show with the assistance of the Y. M. C. A. had a new pair of fighters ready to step into the ring just as soon as each match was finished. There were no time lags or waiting periods.

First to take the ring were Harold Knapp of Marion and Jack Millington of Richwood, paperweights, which Knapp won by decision. It was a good match although there were few hard blows landed.

The first Camp Millard soldier to take the ring, Sgt. A. G. Ramirez whose home is in Tucson, Ariz., met reverses at the hands of Ernest Arcuri of Marion in a welterweight match. The soldier's seconds threw in the towel at the end of the second round after he suffered a bad cut over one eye. Arcuri was credited with a technical knockout.

Sandusky Fighter Wins

Howard Smith of Sandusky won a hard-fought bout from Harold Applegett of Bucyrus, winning a decision. Smith's left-hand jabs were credited with the close margin of victory.

Walter Anderson of Marion, combining good defensive tactics with aggressive fighting, won a decision from Jim Drossman of Sandusky.

Gene Shenefield of Marion won an easy decision over Robert Bufford of Delaware, leading all the way and sending Bufford to the canvas in the third round.

One of the closest matches of the evening was between George Roest of Marion and Orville Ellsworth of Camp Millard, a welterweight bout which Roest won by decision. Ellsworth held the edge the first two rounds but Roest made a strong finish to win the bout.

Anthony Callipare of Camp Millard brought first honors of the night into the soldier-fighters' camp when he won a decision over Charles Gabriel of Bucyrus. He took honors in all three rounds.

Dorman Knapp of Marion won a decision over Jim Detrick of Marion in the flyweight class. It was a close match, with a questionable blow struck by Detrick entering into the decision being awarded to Knapp.

Millard Corporal Wins

Cpl. John Landanno of Camp Millard pounded Roy Thomas of Marion through two rounds, dealing out heavy body blows, to score a technical knockout at the end of the second round. Thomas was unable to answer the bell for the start of the third round.

Bill Luse of Marion won a featherweight match from Bob Kiser of Marion despite the fact that Kiser forced the fight all the way. However, some of his blows were regarded a little too low and the decision went to Luse.

John Roseberry of Marion turned back William Duchon of Camp Millard, leading all the way and finishing strong. Roseberry had the reach on Duchon and used this advantage effectively.

Wilmer Bibler won a decision from Robert Boyd of Marion in the 150-pound class, forcing the fight all the way and taking all three rounds.

The one full-fledged knockout of the night came when Merle Jackson of Marion knocked down Pvt. Joe Brzezinski of Camp Millard three time in rapid succession and then sent him down for keeps after a minute and 45 seconds of the first round. Both weighed in at 138.

Harry Richardson of Marion scored a technical knockout over Forest Banks of Delaware after a minute and 40 seconds of the second round. Banks was on the canvass four times before deciding to stay there.

Thomas Clemmons of Marion won by a decision over Hoyt Leeth Jr. of LaRue in the light-heavy division. Clemmons started out like he was on the way to a knockout, but his opponent grew stronger as the fight went on.

Wins By Technical K. O.

Joe Hanson of Camp Millard was credited with a technical knockout over John H. Allen of LaRue in a heavyweight bout. Allen failed to answer the bell at the start of the second round.

Sgt. William Hoare of Camp Millard knocked out Ed Simmons of Marion in a light-heavy bout, the k.o. coming after 40 seconds of the third round. He was the fourth soldier to win last night.

Cpl. Charles Parks won a decision over Pvt. Robert Day in the first all-soldier match of the program. Both are from Camp Millard and are in the same company. Parks led all the way, and was credited with all three rounds.

Blaine Fulton of Richwood won from Tom Boyle of Bucyrus on a forfeit.

John Werley of Marion was awarded a decision by default over Thomas Casey of Bucyrus. Officials said Casey failed to appear for his match.

Drawings for tonight's fights will not be made until shortly before the program starts.

Dr. A. J. Wagner was referee and the judges were Billy Minshall, Paul Castner and R. G. Smallwood. Dr. E. H. Morgan examined the fighters before the matches began and accepted all but one. John Benedict of Marion, who was not permitted to fight because of a bad cut over one eye. R. M. Wilhelm and Marion Hinklin divided the job of announcing.

Results of First Round Matches

Harold Knapp (68) of Marion, decision over Jack Millington (77) of Richwood.

Yankees Digging Up Dickey Substitutes If They Are Needed

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 14—Taking the place of Bill Dickey isn't the softest job a guy could dream up for himself but, if the greatest Yankee catcher of all time is accepted for Army duty after his physical exam tomorrow there are three newcomers itching to try.

When they heard that Dickey might go and Rollie Hemsley was going to stay on his Vienna, Mo., farm the Yankees decided to do a little farming on their own and hoed up three candidates on their Kansas City and Newark plantations. They're Joe Glenn, Bob Collins and Mike Garbark, all of whom got most of their training under Yankee farm bosses George Weiss and Paul Krichell.

Glenn and Collins have had big league shots before but it's the first time up for Garbark.

The name of Glenn isn't exactly new to New York customers who have a dim recollection of him in short takes from 1933 to 1938. Glenn performed with the Browns and White Sox after he left New York, spent two years in Louisville and Oakland before he bobbed up last year as first stringer at Kansas City.

Collins is a steady, workmanlike receiver who moved up through the Yankee system as far as Newark, was sold to Los Angeles and finally hit the majors for a couple of trials with the parent Chicago Cubs. He was out of baseball last year but was the property of K. C.

Garbark is, strictly a product of the Weiss-Krichell school, a durable, husky fellow with Villanova football experience who can hit that ball hard, but not always too consistently. He didn't know he was going to the Yankee camp until last Saturday.

Cruickshank Favored To Repeat This Year

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C., March 14—An eligibility restruction helped tiny Boby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., win the north and south open golf tournament last year, and another unusual factor is likely to aid him in winning this year's tourney that opens today.

A year ago the tournament was limited to military men and civilians over 38 and with young low scorers absent, Bobby was able to whip the field. This year the PGA is not sponsoring the $3,000 tourney and some top stars, are skipping it. So with some sharpshooters away, the veteran Scotsman's road to victory will be easier.

NEW YORK, March 14—Now that spring training is under way, major league managers are predicting this will be a "pitchers' year." . . . what pitchers? . . . a very rough survey shows the reasonably good elbowers still outnumbered by the fair-to-middling hitters . . . we don't look for much change in the normal balance except in the cases of such clubs as the Yankees and Senators, who still have enough good pitchers to put one on the hill every day . . . Ortiz To Defend Title in Los Angeles Tonight

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 14—Manuel Ortiz, undisputed champion of the bantamweight boxing division, defends his title tonight for the ninth time. Challenger in the scheduled 15-round bout is Ernesto Aguilar of Mexica City.

Aguilar is a leftie and clever, but he has no particularly damaging punch. Southpaws bother Ortiz, the gentleman farmer from California's Imperial valley. The boys who throw punches from the portside usually manage to go the distance against him.

Nevertheless, Tommy Farmer's protege has been installed as a 1-4 favorite.

Major League Holdout Ranks Swell As Training Season Opens

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 14—Star catcher Walker Cooper, of the St. Louis Cardinals, Vince DiMaggio, outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates; and Lee Walker, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, are the latest additions to the 1944 ranks of baseball holdouts.

Front office men dislike the word holdout, but players unsigned at the start of spring training are so regarded by the fans. Warren Giles, general manager of the Reds, said "there are no holdouts (among the Reds). Some are just late in reporting."

Cooper, in company with first sacker Johnny Hopp, discussed terms with president Sam Breadon of the Cards yesterday, but the two did not sign contracts. Breadon asserted afterwards "I don't expect any trouble."

No comment was forthcoming from the Pirates on DiMaggio. Walker, however, announced in Orlando, Fla. he wants more money from the Reds.

That puts Walker in the company of such other stars as shortstop Billy Jurges, of the New York Giants; Ron Northey, outfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies; outfielder Luis Olmo, of the Brooklyn Dodgers; and pitcher Luke Hamlin, of the Philadelphia Athletics, all of whom have asserted they want a salary hike.

Then there's pitcher Bobo Newsom, traded to the A's by Washington, who has announced he is satisfied with Connie Mack's terms, but for some unexplained reason has not yet put his "John Hancock" on a contract.

Other diamond developments yesterday included:

Atlantic City—Yanks bought catcher Joe Glenn from Kansas City, but learned pitcher Marvin Breuer has decided to remain on his war plant job.

Frederick, Md.—Coach Earle Brucker asserted rookie Pitcher Carl Scheib, 17, of Gratz, Pa., needs only to learn change of pace to win regular starting job.

Muncie, Ind.—Pittsburgh Pirates informed pitcher Jim Hopper was inducted into Army at Charlotte, N. C.

Evansville, Ind.—Detroit Tigers announced Elon "Chief" Hogsett, who pitcher for them decade ago, will try out for pitching berth. The Chief, a southpaw, was with Minneapolis recently. Pitcher R. J. Henshaw sent word he intends to remain at his Chicago war job.

Chicago—Infielder Grey Clarke, up from Milwaukee, and Bob, who pitched for them decade ago, signed White Sox contracts. Outfielder Myril Hoag also signed bringing total satisfied players up to 29.

Lakewood, N. J.—Manager Mel Ott announced he has been reclassified 1-A. Thirteen players still unsigned, including Jurges.

College Park, Md.—Washington Pitcher Alex Carrasquel reported from Venezuela and brought along a countryman, pitcher Juan Hernandez.

Boston—Veteran pitcher Jim Tobin signed with Braves.

650 Hear Organist And Soprano in Marion Concert

Mr. Kraft opened his program by playing the National Anthem. This was followed by "Psalm XLV" by Marcello. The "Aria" by Purcell, the dainty "Minuetto" of Haydn, "Scherzo" by J. H. Rogers, "Chinese Garden" by Stoughton, and the "Toccata" by Matthews were among the favorites of the listeners.

For an encore he played "Canzonetta" by Karl McKinley.

Mrs. H. D. Brickley of Akron, a soprano, sang in her first group "Invocation" from the Opera "Radimisto," by Handel, "Pastoral" from Opera "Rosalinda," by Varacini, and the "Song of Ruth" by Gounod. Her last group consisted of the lovely "Iris" by Daniel Wolf, "In Mezzo al Mar" by Gene Sazero, and "The Jasmine Door" by Alicia Scott. Her accompaniments were played by Mrs. Cecil Davis.

Mrs. Griselda Davis Dombaugh, a member of the Lecture-Recital club and former student of Mr. Kraft, furnished the program notes. In commenting on the program, she congratulated the club.

Ushers for the concert were Miss Rosaline Manzo, Miss Eleanor Cowan, and Mrs. Virginia Griffiths. Tickets were taken by Mrs. Clara Campbell, Mrs. O. D. Anderson and Mrs. George Oberst. Miss Wanda McMahon, social chairman of the club was in charge of an informal reception for the two artists, held in the church parlors following the concert.

Three from Marion Get High Honors for DeMolay Work

M. P. Wiant R. N. Erskine

At the semi-annual inspection of Marion Chapter of the DeMolay held Saturday night in the Masonic temple it was announced that Marion P. Wiant, past master councilor, and Ray N. Erskine, master councilor had been elected to receive the Degree of Chevalier at the grand council meeting earlier this month in Kansas City, Mo. Robert W. Solinger, advisor of the Marion chapter was elected to receive the Cross of Honor at the same meeting.

The Degree of Chevalier is the highest award of the council for outstanding leadership and service and Cross of Honor is the highest tribute conferred on an advisor.

Marion officers officiating at the inspection Saturday night were headed by Mr. Erskine, master councilor, Walter E. Bartlett, senior councilor and James D. Melby, junior councilor. Other officers participating were: Delmar Risch, Paul Mitton, George Stafford, Kenneth Spear, Richard Linder, Charles Pace, Robert Boyd, Fred Cathers, Jack Robbins, Glenn Wrenn, Robert Mason Jr., Sam Martin, Jack Rubins, Richard Barnhart, James Smithson, William Luse and Frank Stewart. Stage and property assistants were Marion Wiant, James Houghton, William Wiedemann and Walter Hane.

Honored guest of the chapter for the evening was Major Robert F. Melby, past master councilor. Visiting officers from other chapters who assisted with the inspection were A. A. Ward, worshipful master of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M.; E. Robert Chable of Cleveland, executive secretary of the Ohio DeMolay; Charles L. "A" CARDS save about 18,000 to 20,000 barrels of gasoline a day.

OPA also announced new plans to crack down on the leakage of gasoline to the black market, which officials described as "now the biggest racket in the United States."

The "A" ration revision means that when "A-11" coupons become valid March 22 for all sections of the country except the Atlantic seaboard (now in a different series), they will have to last three months instead of two, the equivalent to two gallons a week for unrestricted family driving.

Along with the reduction, OPA will terminate the requirement that 60 miles a month of occupational mileage be taken out of the "A" ration before the motorist becomes eligible for a supplemental "B" or "C" ration.

Motorists in the middle-of-the country states holding a "B" ration and meeting requirements on car pooling may apply to local rationing boards for coupons to make up gasoline lost through the cut in the "A" ration. They will be issued "B" coupons allowing up to 475 miles a month of driving, an adjustment in the "B" ceiling from 460 miles a month. This was necessary, OPA said, since "B" rations are issued each three months in coupons worth five gallons each and representing 75 miles of driving.

COUNTY PEACE MEETINGS HELD

Post-War Prospects Are Topic of Church Conference Here Today.

"What Kind of a Peace Do We Want?" and the economic phases of peace were discussed in the first session of a one-day county-wide conference on "A Just and Permanent Peace" this morning at Calvary Evangelical church. Speakers were Rev. D. N. Roller of Mansfield and Rev. M. L. Scott of Columbus, ministers who, with a number of others throughout the state, are giving their time to mustering the strength of the churches of the state to back a movement for establishing a means of enduring world harmony after the war.

A real peace must be based on the needs of the mass of people of the world, Rev. Roller, the first speaker, declared. In order to maintain a permanent peace it will be necessary to form a world government in which each nation is willing to surrender some of its national sovereignty for the international good, he continued.

"We must learn to cooperate or perish," he said, and pointed out that today it is possible to reach any point on the globe "from your own door" in 64 hours. "Internationally minded persons think in terms of the rights of others," he declared, and "this is the 'over-all' loyalty, loyalty to the Kingdom of God on earth."

The earth was created by God to nourish all men, was the declaration of Rev. Scott in discussing the economic phases of peace. The variances found in the economic status of races and peoples are from natural causes such as the earth's surface, and climate, making variations in men's progress, habits and economies, and artificial causes of the variations are man-made boundary lines, barriers to trade, tariffs, export taxes, government monopolies, he pointed out. There is self-interest and greed, he said, adding that organizations and movements to counteract this situation were listed.

Congregational singing was led by Rev. R. W. Faulkner, host pastor, Rev. E. M. Hertzler, president of the Marion County Council of Churches backing the conference spoke briefly, and round table discussions were held.

Afternoon and evening sessions were set, with two groups to meet tonight, adults in the Calvary church and a youth meeting in Salem Evangelical and Reformed church. Rev. Schuyler L. Gutts of Youngstown and Rev. J. C. Rabbs of Columbus will speak. Meetings are at 7:30.

ENGINEERS MEET

PROFIT TAKING CUTS UPSWING

List Off To Steady Start but Reverses Develop in Fourth Hour.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 14—Profit taking on the lengthy upswing cut down stock market leaders fractions to a point or so in today's market.

The list got off to a steady start, with scattered rails and industrial favorites at new 1944 tops. Near the fourth hour losers were well in the majority. While dealings were fast at intervals, slow-downs were plentiful.

Earnings, dividends and political wishful-thinking still provided bullish arguments but some customers trimmed accounts on the idea the advance may have been a bit too speedy and that a technical correction was likely.

On the offside were Schenley, Hiram Walker, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Westinghouse, General Electric, Montgomery Ward and Johns-Manville. Steels were about unchanged. Resistant were Texas Co., Anaconda, Deere and Woolworth.

Council Votes Airport Lease

Will Be Operated by Alvin A. Freeman; Report Received on Swimming Pool Proposal.

Approval of an ordinance empowering the safety-service director to lease the Municipal Airport, hangar and office to Alvin A Freeman for $100 a year, establishing the salary of the clerk of the traffic violations bureau at $120 per month, approval of additional appropriations for 1944 and the placing the gift of the late Ward H. Bones in a special fund were items of legislation enacted by city council at last night's meeting.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler's appointment of Miss Irene Gantt as clerk of the traffic bureau, which will open Wednesday in the city hall, was announced today.

In the caucus session, preceding the council meeting, the Marion recreation commission, composed of Robert T. Mason, Douglas Torrance, Frank Robinson, U. A Nystrom and Herbert Wade, appeared before the councilmen with a report of progress made in the plans for the proposed municipal swimming pool and recreation center. In presenting the report, Mr. Mason, chairman, stated that the commission had gone as far as was in their power to go until a definite method of financing the project had been decided upon.

Estimated Cost

In response to a query from Councilman Wilhelm as to the estimated cost of the swimming pool, Mr Mason said that based on labor and materials at present the cost would be around $130,000. This, he stated, included a possible increase in materials or other expense entering into the project. Mr Nystrom, in expressing the views of the committee, stated that if Marion wants the swimming pool the citizens will have to express their desire by voting on the project, that it is not the plan of the committee to go out and get subscriptions. It was the consensus of the mayor and councilmen that this should be the procedure. City Solicitor Edwin Spohn informed the committee and council that a levy to finance the project would have to come in a general election.

Mr. Mason explained that the committee did not expect council to take action at this time, stating that "it is something that will require careful thought." He explained that the committee had been functioning for a year and that considerable time had been spent in investigating sites, considering plans carried out by other cities, holding meetings and in attempting to find out the opinions of others. He called attention to the enthusiasm displayed when the matter of a recreation center was brought before representatives of various organizations in the city recently and said that at that time he knew some men had come prepared to make donations of $1,000. Mr. Wade stated that he is a shop man and the first thing he is asked by his associates is "Are you going to build a swimming pool?" Materials will be available, the discussion brought out. At the suggestion of Councilman Reo the matter was referred to the planning commission.

Gift Fund Established

A gift of $1,000 presented to the city of Marion from the estate of the late Ward H. Bones, by Attorney Hayes Thompson, recently accepted by council, was authorized placed in the Hospital Trust fund to be used as a memorial to the donor. The sum of $2,204.48 was authorized appropriated from the general fund to care for incidentals and specified the appropriation of $1,000 from the hospital fund to purchase equipment in that amount.

Legislation empowering the service-safety director to lease the municipal airport specified the time as one year. Other legislation included approval of installation of a two-inch water main on York street from Pies avenue to Waterloo street. Petitions received included one from property residents seeking installation of sanitary and storm water sewers and a gas line on Bartram avenue from Silver street to Blake avenue; raising the sidewalk and replacement of broken walks caused by trucks running over them between Silver street and Blake avenue on Bartram avenue; extension of a water pipeline on Bartram avenue from Silver street to Blake avenue; general repair of Franconia avenue. A letter signed by Dr. M. M. Weinbaum, city health commissioner, stated that residents of Bartram avenue did not have a safe water supply and recommended that city water be provided. The petitions were referred to the proper committees. The water analysis for the period ending March 9 was 11.6 low, 12.1 high, the report of the F. C. Browne, sanitary engineer, showed.

Relief Report

The report of F. S. Burns, relief area director, showed 51 cases involving 107 persons had been received during February. Direct relief incurred an expenditure of $1,006.83, medical $137.25, and administrative $191.90, making a total of $1,335.98. R. E. Burnett, superintendent of the sewage treatment works submitted a bill of $1,229.75 for operational expense. All were approved.

The report of Chief of Police Marks showed that 190 arrests had been made during the month, 23 traffic tickets issued, 315 police calls answered, 312 complaints handled, 183 meals served, four automobiles and nine bicycles stolen, and property recovered in the sum of $1,857.64.

Following reading of a letter addressed to Harry Wilhelm, chairman of the finance committee, from officers of Local Union No. 310, state, county and municipal Workers of America, CIO, seeking revision of an ordinance establishing rates of pay, hours and other working conditions, Edward Kelly, representative of the CIO, presented the grievances of the Marion local. The revision as presented by the local asks that in cases of promotion or increase or decrease in the number of employes, the rule of seniority prevail and that higher classifications be filled by promotion from lower classifications on the basis of seniority provided that employes can perform the duties called for, and set the rate of pay as follows: mechanics, $1.10 per hour; painter, mechanic's helper, tractor operator, heavy equipment operator, 90 cents per hour, truck drivers 80 cents per hour and laborers 75 cents per hour. The revision also stipulated that all employed continuously for more than one year be entitled to an annual vacation of two weeks with pay. The request was referred to the finance committee and the service-safety director, who were asked to report at the next council meeting.

SERVICE VOTE BILL GIVEN SENATE OK

WASHINGTON, March 14 — A state's rights service vote bill, permitting the use of a curtailed federal ballot only with the states' permission, won final approval of the senate today after embittered debate.

The senate voted 47 to 31 to approve the final version of the measure, worked out by a joint conference committee of house and senate members after weeks of wrangling.

The measure now goes to the house, where Chairman Woxley (D-Tex.) of the elections committee predicted its prompt acceptance.

Senators Green (D-R.I.) and Lucas (D-Ill.), authors of the original federal ballot bill, disowned it after the house lopped away most of their handiwork and replaced it with machinery giving the states first say about the form of the ballots and full right to determine the qualifications of absent voters.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky took the floor against the compromise, declaring it was so "bound up with adhesive tape" in a legal sense that it would complicate voting by service men and women in the November election.

In a speech regarded in some quarters as presaging a veto of the measure by President Roosevelt, Barkley said congress had failed to set up as simple a procedure for voting as was possible.

Both Ohio senators Taft and Burton voted for the compromise bill.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

At my mother-in-law's tearful cry, I fairly leaped from my own chair to the broad arm of hers, put my arms around her, pulled her against my shoulder, and gathered her trembling hands in mine.

"What is it, Mother dearest?" I queried softly. "Tell me — when you can," I added as she began to sob. "Just cry it out now."

Strong Character

But my mother-in-law is made of too strong a fiber to let tears have their way very long, and in a few more seconds, she stopped sobbing, her hands ceased to tremble, and she began to draw them away from mine. As I released them, I slipped a handkerchief into one of them, and if I had not been inured to such quick changes of her mood on her part and Dick's—I would have been amazed to hear a little chuckle from behind the handkerchief.

"You are most efficient, Margaret," she said, "First aid always ready-! Now if you'll please sit opposite me again, I'll try to explain the reason for my rudeness to you, and my breakdown just now."

"It wasn't rudeness," I protested, adding quickly: "Please don't say anything unless you want to."

I was back in my own chair now, and she leaned forward, the poker entirely absent from her back and also any sign of mirth from her lips and eyes. Indeed, I saw that behind her bravery of mien, there was infinite sadness in her eyes.

"You know me well enough, I think," she began, "to understand that I would not tell you these things unless I very much wished to do so. But I must tell some one. Richard and Harriet and Mary are far away, and, my dear daughter, I do not believe any of the three would understand me any better than you will."

No Bitterness

I could have raised my right hand and taken oath that there was no residue of bitterness left in me from the many conflicts of will between Dicky's mother and me since my marriage. But if there had been, every vestige of it would have been blown away when I heard this tender and, I knew, sincere avowal.

"Before you go on, may I thank you for those words, Mother?" I said earnestly. "You cannot know how they warm my heart."

"They are less than your due," she said, and then se went on, her voice quiet, though infinitely sad at first, rising impassionately at the end.

"Until you are as old and as feeble—I realize it now—as I am," she began, "you cannot understand the feeling that is coming to me and the other women of my age since this war began to drain our home working resources so much. There is nothing required of us. Even any proposed labor draft stops far short of our age. We are not permitted to give our blood—I tried that and was told I was too old—and when I went down to the classes in home nursing, the women eased me out politely but unmistakably. I knew what they were saying as I was out of hearing. 'Poor old soul! Can't she realize she'd only be taking up valuable time while we were trying to train her?'

Ironical

There was irony in her voice now, which changed to bitterness as she took up her sorrowful saga again.

"Here the country is going through the most awful period in its history," she said; "and I—and many others like me—are laid away tenderly but firmly on shelves and told to lie still until everything is over.

"I love my country, Margaret," she went on, emotion filling her voice. "I would so gladly die for her. But you understand, don't you, that I don't want to die from sheer inertia, without lifting my hand for her? And yet, I can see that trying to take your place while you are gone might very well make things much harder for you. So send for Lillian, and let her take charge of things. I'll help her wherever I can. But, oh, Margaret, you are so clever! Can't you think of something I can do to help in this crisis, so I won't feel as if I were something fit only to be thrown on the trash heap?"

There was such suffering in her voice that for a second my own throat was too constricted with pity to answer her.

Then I leaned forward and spoke steadily:

Discuss Subject

"Mother, dear, look at me. Just the minute I get through with this present crisis, you and I are going to sit down together and go into that subject. I feel as though we may be able to work out something worth while. But in the meantime, I want you to remember something. If you never lift your hand again—which you will, both of them, God willing, many times—you have done your share toward this war. Who, for one thing, trained your son so that when World war I came, he did his part worthily, and is now working for his country again? Who, in all these years, has held the banner of God-fearing, right-thinking life aloft, wherever you have been? Who has never shirked her share of work anywhere? Who, in short, cannot be spared a single second?"

"I'm getting a bit mixed up in my syntax," I said smiling, but with a lump in my throat, "but I'd like to shout the answer to all thoses questions. It is 'You, Mother, you!' and don't you dare mention being on the shelf again!"

We both were emotionally tensed almost to the breaking point, and I for one was relieved when the safest of all deflations sounded from the doorway.

"Who's going on the shelf?" Faith demanded. "What shelf? Why?"

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, March 15

A PARTICULARLY exciting, interesting and eventful day is read from astral influences, with the promise of a sudden and quite unforseen opening for an important advancement, favor or other cherished objective, probably calling for travel, change, new contracts or interests under highly pleasant and profitable circumstances. Unusual talents or ingenuity may be the mainspring of this show of interest from those in influential places, but it might be that an over zealous or extravagant forcing of issues might hinder, or unguarded emotional behavior have similar results. Be restrained and also safeguard funds.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an unforeseen and dramatic opportunity to achieve their noble aims or ambitions, probably due to some exceptional creative talent or skill coming to the attention of those in influential positions, who may be disposed to promote or finance such effort. Honors, favors or preferment may be sought with confidence, but with modesty and finesse, rather than force or aggressiveness. The social, or sentimental factors are considerable, but should be under due restraints, lest there be danger to desired hopes or fair reputation. Shun all extravagances and dubious alliances.

A child born on this day may have much talent and opportunity for promoting them, but its inclination to pursue pleasure or other extravagances may prove detrimental.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Vermin Infestation

This column by the very nature of the field which it covers does not deal with polite subjects. We make no apologies, therefore, for dealing with infestation with lice, the more so since war conditions have caused such an increase of such infestation that two state health commissioners have devoted especial attention to warnings. Burns may have waxed poetical about a louse, but I will stick to the stark realities.

Three species of lice infest man—the head louse, the body louse, and the pubic, or crab, louse. They are quite distinct in appearance and habits, each one sticking pretty closely to his own geographic territory. All are wingless, all lay eggs on the hair of clothing. These eggs are attached to the hair by a very firm glue that can be dissolved only in kerosene, vinegar or ether, or similar solvents. Sixteen days are required for complete development from egg to adult.

Our soldiers are undoubtedly suffering more from infestation than the civilian population. And it is a serious question for the sanitary corps. Many diseases are carried by lice. The terrific epidemic of typhus fever which devastated Europe, especially the Balkan States after the last war is an example. They may cause severe scalp infections from scratch marks.

The head louse is a short, dark insect, and may change to protective coloring matching its host. The brown oval eggs are deposited on the hair half an inch from the roots. Each female can lay around 200 eggs in the 30 days of her adult life.

School children are especially liable to having head lice—girls more than boys, because of longer hair. The lice stay in caps and hats and when exchanges take place, or in hat racks, go from one to the other. Crowding in school rooms also spreads them.

Treatment—Wash the head and hair thoroughly with a mixture of equal parts of sweet oil, kerosene and vinegar. Stay away from open flames. Wrap the head in a towel after the mixture is on for several hours and then comb out thoroughly with a fine-tooth comb to remove the dead lice and eggs (nits). Then wash head and hair thoroughly with soap and water. Repeat on two or three successive nights. Inspect all other members of the family.

Body lice live in the clothing and stay attached to the clothing not the body. Their favorite habitat is in seams and around the collar and waist.

To get rid of them the clothing only need be treated. The clothes should be boiled or put in an autoclave. Pressing or steaming with a hot iron, or treatment with gasoline, turpentine or benzine will get rid of them, but these methods are not as reliable as the autoclave. Most insect powders do not harm them: but sulphur powder is most likely to.

Pubic, or crab, lice affect the pubic region and sometimes stray to the armpits even the beard. Infection comes from contact in lodging houses, hotels, strange beds, toilet seats and bathtubs. Treatment is by mercury ointment.
